'RAG TIME' SAVING SCHEDULE DRAWS CITIZENS' ATTACK

North Capitol and Eckington Body Asks New Program.

Both the "rag time" schedule and daylight saving by moving the clock were condemned in resolutions adopted by the meeting of the North Capitol and Eckington Citizens' Association at a meeting at the Emory School last night.

In presenting a resolution asking the Board of Education to return to its pre-daylight-saving schedule, G. E. S. Williams was enthusiastically seconded by the gathering.

"Of all things come to annoy parents, this stunt is the worst," he proclaimed. "It means getting up and getting the children off an hour earlier. I don't believe anyone likes it."

Children Lose Sleep. "Children lose one hour's sleep, because they can't go to sleep before dark," explained Homer Hall, arguing that the so-called daylight saving was detrimental to the health of the children. "Moreover, it means another meal, because between the daylight-saving dinner time, and the actual bed-time of the family, it's time to eat again. It's an expense, and hard on housewives."

Following the passage of the request to the school board, a resolution asking the re-establishment of standard time in the District was adopted after the Congressional bill granting the Commissioners power to set the clocks was generally condemned.

The association also asked the route of the motor buses be extended to Summit place northeast, more lights along North Capitol street, and a permanent traffic policeman at the intersection of North Capitol street and Florida avenue.

Further resolutions passed backed the Commissioners in their efforts to obtain high water pressure for the fire department in the downtown district, and endorsed the Phelps bill, removing the members of the Metropolitan police force from the White House and replacing them with park policemen.

A memorial of Edward Foulke, one of the oldest members of the association, who died May 18, was placed upon the records.

Co-operation, individual and national, was urged upon the meeting in a speech by Prof. N. C. Stake, of Ashburn, Va. The best way for the city to co-operate with the country, he pointed out, was to impress the country boy that his best place was upon the farm.

Miss Corinne Elizabeth Morgan supplied entertainment by reading features.
